A photograph of two walrus resting on a large, white ice floe. The walrus in the foreground is shown in profile, facing right, with its head slightly turned towards the viewer. It has thick, wrinkled, brownish-grey skin and two long, white, slightly curved tusks. Its eyes are small and dark. The second walrus is positioned behind the first, partially obscured, and is also facing right. The background consists of a deep blue ocean with white-capped waves under a cloudy, overcast sky. The ice floe they are resting on is a mix of white and light blue.
